Frontend Developer, (Freelancer)

I have been working as a freelance frontend developer for almost a year now, mainly creating landing pages and user interfaces, in addition to my work as a programmer I often come up with and create design myself. I also spend a lot of time in my work contacting clients and customizing application requirements to the client's vision. Most of my work in this area is private and I can't show too much outside of my portfolio, which I constantly update with new fullstack projects that are built with the latest technology in the industry.
